

LILY LLOYD BURKHALTER

Writer, textile researcher, and teacher based in Lille (FR).

My writing, which explores the connection between text and textiles, has been published in top-tier U.S. literary journals (Ploughshares, The Common, Gulf Coast, The Missouri Review). A 2022 Pulitzer Center Reporting Fellow, I continue independent textile research while coaching design students and teaching humanities courses in a number of French universities. In my writing and in the classroom, I strive for an approach that encourages innovation and creative self-reliance, characterized by playful exploration, rigor, and intuition.

lily.lloyd.b@gmail.com | +33 7 65 59 32 10 | lilylloydburkhalter.com

Represented by Audrey Crooks, Trident Media Group Literary Agency (NYC)

SELECTED PUBLICATIONS

- 2026 "Summer Winter" - Denver Quarterly (essay) - print
- 2025 "Raffia Memory" - The Common (essay) - print
#10 on The Common's The Most-Read Pieces of 2025
- 2024 "Point of Origin" - Gulf Coast (essay) - print
"Two Annes" - David Street Drawing Room (essay)
Nominated for a Pushcart Prize
- 2023 "My French" - Ploughshares (essay) - print
"Object Lessons in the Drawing Room" -
Davis Street Drawing Room (exhibit text)
"Scroll: a blueprint for a novel" - Denver Quarterly (textile art)
- 2022 "Odd Secrets of the Line" - The Missouri Review (essay)
Nominated for Best of the Net
- 2020 "Last Conversation with Alice" - DIAGRAM (short fiction)
"Slow Descent: The Anglophone Crisis in Cameroon" - F Newsmagazine

TEXTILE RESEARCH

Pulitzer Center on Crisis Reporting, Reporting fellow (2022)

-Conducted research and reporting on the production and use of the traditional Ndop cloth, including four weeks of independent fieldwork in Cameroon and presentations in Bafoussam and Washington D.C.

Davis Street Drawing Room, Studio and research assistant (May - Aug 2022)

-Collaborated with Guggenheim Fellow and U.S. Artists Distinguished Fellow Anne Wilson to develop the conceptual framework and layout of her public-facing art exhibit (based in Chicago from 2022 - 2023, inaugural exhibit of NYC Museum of Arts and Design in 2024).

TEACHING (since Sept 2023)

(TEXT)ILE ARCHITECTURES (proposal)

How do we inhabit narratives? This interdisciplinary week-long intensive, co-taught with Chilean textile artist Amanda Goicovic, invites art students to translate sensory experience into narrative space by exploring the historical connection between text and textiles through a blend of theory, textile crafts, and experimental writing.

CREATIVE WRITING (EFAP 2nd year, WRITING AND RHETORIC ISCOM 1st year)

This workshop is designed to improve students' linguistic sensitivity through a (re)discovery of the pleasure of writing. We experiment with ekphrastic writing, collaborative world-building, and Oulipian constraint-based exercises to hone our skills of observation and narrative construction. Students develop a critical eye for the effective use of stylistic devices in various rhetorical situations, culminating in an individual or small-group print publication.

SEMIOLOGY (ecv 4th year, 5th year, ISCOM 3rd year)

Alternating between theory and hands-on analysis, this course introduces design and communication students to the fundamentals of semiology as a "toolkit" for deepening their understanding of the life of signs in society. Students practice semiotic analysis using examples in contemporary life, advertising campaigns, and visual art, sharpening their critical thinking about the manipulation and interpretation of signs.

RHETORICAL PRESENTATIONS (EFAP 4th year, ENGLISH TALK ISTC 3rd year, PITCHING ISCOM 3rd year)

The objective of this module is to guide students in defending a thoughtful critique within their professional field. Through the analysis of effective arguments and collaborative work to develop their personal opinions, students learn to structure an argument, create compelling visuals, and deliver a persuasive speech.

THESIS DEFENSE COACHING (ISD Rubika 5th year)

One-on-one coaching sessions with graduating designers to develop their storytelling and presentation skills, including work on narrative structure, body language, and strategies for a smooth Q&A with a panel of professionals.

PRESS REVIEW (ISTC 2nd year)

This media literacy course is designed to help students broaden their perspectives and develop critical thinking about international news. Students deepen their understanding of the world and the contemporary media landscape by identifying different forms of bias and asking informed questions about news stories and sources.

BUSINESS COMMUNICATION (EDHEC Pre-Master's, Grande Ecole Program and Business Law Management cohort)

In this course, students improve their written and oral English communication skills through case studies and role-plays. Modules include pitching, interviewing, holding effective meetings, crisis management, and negotiation.

EDUCATION

School of the Art Institute of Chicago - Chicago, IL (Sept 2020 - May 2022)

MFA in Writing, New Artist Society Scholar

University of Virginia - Charlottesville, VA (Sept 2010 - May 2014)

BA English, Concentration: Area Program in Poetry Writing, Pruden Scholar

FELLOWSHIPS, AWARDS

2022 Small Grant, School of the Art Institute of Chicago:

Research on Kuba cloths at the MET's Antonio Ratti Textile Center

Short-listed for The Masters Review Novel Excerpt Contest

2020 New Artist Society Scholarship, School of the Art Institute of Chicago:

Awarded full tuition scholarship for the MFA in Writing

2019 Minnesota Northwoods Writers Conference Fiction Scholarship

Funded to attend a week-long fiction workshop taught by Peter Orner

2014 Recipient of the University of Virginia's Hannah Kahn Poetry Prize

Recipient of the faculty-nominated Pruden Scholarship

CONFERENCES, INTERVIEWS, CRAFT TALKS

Héritages Tissés: Histoires, circulation et réappropriations du patrimoine textile en Afrique, Presentation of article co-authored with Francine Awounang, "Valorisation et innovation: nouveaux récits autour des textiles patrimoniaux africains," participation in 3-day international conference at CY Cergy Paris Université, 2026 (upcoming)

The Common Podcast, 30-minute interview with Managing Editor Emily Everett, 2025

Lawndale / Gulf Coast Reading, Featured writer (reading and craft talk with University of Houston Creative Writing doctoral candidates), 2024

Pulitzer Center Washington Weekend, Panel participant for Art and Identity, individual presentation title: "Written in threads: Cameroonian Ndop," 2022

Festival Ndop Dérivés et Accessoires, "Une perspective internationale des textiles comme systèmes d'écriture," 20-minute presentation with local historians in Bafoussam, Cameroon, 2022

SAIC Graduate Student Lecture Series, Craft talk, "Oulipo & the constraint-based novel: using the logic of the loom as a generator for narrative patterning," 2021